The TV industry has changed dramatically in recent years. A growing number of people have “cut the cord” and dropped their cable TV subscriptions in favor of streaming services such as Venture’s UView+ or YouTube TV.

Making the switch to streaming adds more viewing variety and convenience. Plus, you may end up saving money since cable TV rates are often higher than the cost of subscribing to a few streaming services. In light of these developments, Venture Communications will be discontinuing our cable TV service in the near future.

We Make It Easy to Start Streaming

Venture Communications offers the UView app to simplify things for streaming beginners. Within this app, two products are available — UView Support and UView+.

UView Support - $20/month

This limited package includes:

- Special purchase price on the Roku Ultra streaming player - Two for $100*
- Local high school channels to watch high school sports and Venture Special Events channels that air championship high school sports
- Static IP address to eliminate a common streaming hassle
- $49.95 installation fee
- Free replacement of ROKU Ultra streaming players
- Support for the ROKU Ultra streaming players and the UView app

UView+ - $165/month

This expanded package includes everything you get in UView Support plus the channels listed in the UView+ lineup, which match the channels in our Basic TV lineup and our Venture Extra package.

For additional details about UView Support and UView+, including the channel lineups, visit venturecomm.net/uvview.

*Limit two Roku Ultra devices at special purchase price. All additional Roku devices are available at regular pricing.

A dynamic IP address changes whenever the device connects, but a static IP address stays the same. UView provides a static IP address so that your IP will not change when your router reboots due to power loss, upgrades, or other network issues. This is important because if your IP changes too often, many streaming providers won't allow you to stream video until you verify your IP with them.
