Winter seems to be hanging on like a bad nightmare and we all dread the winter travel worries. Before you travel, remember to call 511. This toll-free number, provided by the South Dakota Department of Transportation and the South Dakota Highway Patrol, offers up-to-the-minute information about weather and road conditions.

By dialing 511 on your land-based or cellular phone, you can receive location-specific road and weather information on any Interstate, US or state highway in South Dakota, North Dakota and Minnesota. Another great resource is the newly updated website found at www.sd511.org.

Travelers should not confuse 511 with 911, the nationwide emergency response number. 911 should be called for any situation requiring police, fire department, ambulance or other emergency services. 911 is manned by trained public safety dispatchers throughout the state of South Dakota.
